Terri Elenzweig, Biography

I have been in the art profession both wholesale and retail for over 50 years. Knowing you never retire from being an Artist, it is a way of life. Once an Artist, always an Artist. I began my career at the age of six years old painting a Santa. Then on to public and private art schools: Brooklyn Museum, Traphagen School of Art and Design, and private lessons with well-known Artists such as Eleanor Dragonette and Al Narizzano.

My first job was with ABC New York where I was Assistant to the Director of Advertising and Promotion. I developed a character called Mr. Commuter who showed the time and weather. After my daughter was born, my teachers urged me to apply to Art shows and so I displayed in art fairs in and around New York, including Greenwich Village. In 1975 my family moved to Hollywood, FL, where I participated in more art shows and opened a Gallery. Many people remember me from Las Olas, Coconut Grove and Coral Gables shows.

In 1980 I found my passion for making Handmade Paper. The rest is History. I opened my original Art Gallery and wholesale gallery in 1977 in Hollywood, FL. I then did juried shows all over the country and am in collections all over the world - including the Disney Masters where my FENG SHUI is part of their permanent collection. I have won many awards and yes I am still working in the Arts.

Please visit me at Hot Works Palm Beach Fine Art Show on Sunday, in the Information/Budding Artist booth as I am now part of Hot Works team as a mentor/coach.
